

BACH - Pre Dealt Boards Trial

Feedback/Comments - 10th Feb 2014

Hi. This is the 4th and final week of the pre dealt boards trial.

I stated at the beginning of this trial 2 objectives. These were to ascertain if:-

1. There is a preference for computer or manually generated hands.
2. There is a benefit in having a copy of the hands available.

This also shows makeable contracts and optimum contracts as well as the average number of points held over the evening

I must also clarify two things:

- 1) The ONLY difference between computer and manually dealt hands is the number of times the pack is fully shuffled. A computer thoroughly shuffles the pack more than 8 times. Manual shuffling is generally less than 7 and usually does not shuffle all the cards, usually resulting in more flat hands.
- 2) The hands are NOT fixed in any way.

In order to get a representative view of the trial I thought it best to conduct a short survey so that everyone had a chance to say what they think. The feedback from tonight will be published on the website on Tuesday night and updated as more forms are returned.

The survey can be anonymous. Please complete and place in the box at the front or give to Reg

Many Thanks

Reg

BACH Pre Dealt Boards - Feedback & Comments

Name

(Leave Blank if you want to remain anonymous)

Question	Yes / No / Don't know	Comment
Could you tell which of the weeks were computer dealt?
Do you have a preference for manually generated hands?
Do you want the hands to be available? (This will only be practical if they are computer generated)
Other Comments		