

John Mulcahy

John was a proud Limerick man. He went to University College, Cork where he graduated in Electrical Engineering. It was also at this time he met his future wife Una in Cork.

He followed all Limerick sporting activities with a passion. He was particularly proud of their recent hurling successes, having been a useful hurler himself in earlier years. In later years he took up golf and featured in the prize winners list on many occasions at Malahide Golf Club.

I had the pleasure of working with John for many years at Aer Lingus, where he was a valued member of the management team. He had a direct style of management, a good listener, compassionate and an incisive decision maker. He represented the airline on many overseas assignments including Thailand, Algeria, Bangladesh and USA.

Whether at work or play John had a distinguished presence, always happy, always positive and larger than life among a wide circle of friends. He will be missed by the many charitable organisations that he quietly supported.

Above all, John was a devoted family man and was so proud of his children, Kevin, Tim, Fiona and John Jr., and his six grandchildren. His lovely wife Una was his real pride and joy. What an inseparable team they were together. They were always a delight to meet at the Bridge table, tough opponents but always cheerful, dignified and good humoured.

We will miss John at the Club. We will miss his infectious good humour.

Ar dheis Dé ar a anam dilis.
