PRESIDENT'S LETTER

by WBL President, Fred King

I hope that all of you reading this will be able to attend the upcoming October sectional and help us celebrate the WBL's 75th Anniversary. As I said before, this makes us even older than the ACBL itself! We hope to use this occasion to relive and celebrate some of the past glories and fun of the WBL. Remember we will be awarding the recently re-found Eynon Trophy for the first time in many years and the Machlin Sportsmanship Trophy for the first time ever! Of course we will have our usual, famous hospitality, so don't miss it!

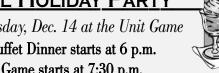

At the same time that we are thinking about the past of the WBL, the Board and I want to also think about the future. The most important input to our planning must be the views of you, the members. What do you like about the WBL? What do you dislike? What changes would you like to see made that would increase your enjoyment from playing in our unit games and sectionals? Please let me or any member of the board of directors (we are the ones wearing name tags on Thursday nights) know what you think. Without your inputs, it is difficult for us to know which directions the WBL should be going in.

Fred King

P.S. As many people have pointed out to me, my memory was faulty. In the last letter I forgot to include the departed men's and women's pairs as events that used to be played in our sectionals on Friday afternoons.

ANNUAL HOLIDAY PARTY

...Thursday, Dec. 14 at the Unit Game Buffet Dinner starts at 6 p.m. Game starts at 7:30 p.m.

The Annual Washington Bridge League Holiday PARTY, which includes dinner and a bridge game will be held at the Thursday night Unit Game on December 14. Everyone is asked to bring their favorite goodies (appetizers, salads, casserole, desserts, etc.). The main course and holiday drinks will be provided. Dinner will be served from 6 to 7 p.m., followed shortly after by the game. If you have any questions or would like to help with the party, please call Kitty at (301) 587-3981 or email her at kgottfried@hotmail.com.

Come on out for great feasting, great bridge and great fun!

SAD NEWS

Charlotte Miller passed away July 28. She was a long time Washington Bridge League member and held the position of Membership Secretary in the 1980's.

More SAD News

Jack Diskin died Monday July 3 in Hampton, VA of an apparent heart attack. He was 63. He was a long time member of the WBL before moving to Hampton a few vears ago. He was on the WBL Board and Vice President, for a short time. Maria Mitchum said Jack was not feeling well Monday morning and she called the Emergency Squad, who arrived in a timely manner: and Jack died of a heart attack on the way to the hospital.

2006-2007 WBL/NVBA PLAYER OF THE YEAR

To be eligible, a player: (1) Must be a member (or pending member) of either the NVBA or the WBL; (2) Must attend at least three WBL and three NVBA sectionals during the contest period (August, 2006 through May, 2007). Points won on Tournament Thursday evenings are included in the totals, but do not count towards eligibility; (3) Must be a member in good standing of the ACBL and a local affiliate throughout the contest period and remain so through the award presentation.

Congratulations to who Rusty Krauss who came in first with a score of 500. He wins a free entry to the Unit Game and will be invited to be on a future panel. I will also play with him at a future Unit Game. Second was Marshall Kuschner with a score of 470. Tied for third were Ron Zucker, Ram Sarangen, and Brad Theurer with a score of 450. Sixth was Fred Steinberg with a score of 440. Seventh was Robert Stone with a score of 430. Eighth was Linda Marshall with a score of 420. Tied for ninth were Ted Wilkinson, Lyle Poe, and Prahalad Raikumar with a score of 410. The average score of the 151 solvers was 308. The average score of the experts was 409

All readers are encouraged to send answers and/or new problems to Steve Robinson, 2891 S. Abingdon St. #A2 Arlington, VA, 22206-1329. In addition to the winner receiving a free play at the WBL Unit Game, Steve will play with anyone who gets a perfect score or who exactly matches all five of his answers. If you send a self-addressed stamped envelope to the above address along with your answers, I will send you a copy of the new problems to ensure that you can meet his next deadline. You can pick up a copy of the problems at the WBL Unit Game in Maryland, and can send answers or requests for problems to robinswr@erols.com. You can also see and answer the problems at the WBL web site. WBL Solvers Club uses Washington Standard as published July 1996.

I personally score all the problems. If a majority of the solvers vote for an answer, and the answer is reasonable I will give that answer 100 points. I will not give 100 points to an answer that I consider bad no matter how many experts vote for it. There are times when I want to make a point. I will give that answer 100 points and will therefore give the majority answer 90 points. For the other answers I consider how good the answer is and how many experts vote for it for its score. If you submitted an answer that got 20 points, that bid would get a bad score at the table. A good exercise would be to figure out why I gave your answer 20 points. You might have misread the problem.

The book Washington Standard second edition is out. If you are a serious bridge player, this book is a must. You can purchase a copy from Steve for $25.00 at the Unit Game. at tournaments or can send him a check for $29.05 that includes $4.05 for priority mail.

Ace	40	0	17

10	40	0	4

You have ♠ 0109♥ 765♦ A1032♣ 654. LHO opens 1♠, partner overcalls 2♥ and RHO bids 2. You have six HCPs of which four points are very good but two could be worthless. Do you bid 3♥? Unless you're playing that double of 2 shows an invitational-togame raise, which very few partnerships do, you need 3♥ as an invitational raise. If East had passed, you would have 2 as an invitational raise and then 3♥ would be a token raise. Over 2♠ bidding 3♥ could encourage partner to bid 4♥. Even 3♥ could be too high. Partner could have ♠ xx♥ AKQJx♦ Kxx♣ xxx. a normal overcall, and if the jack of spades is wrong or they lead the diamond nine, seven tricks is the limit. Give partner a better overcall such as ♠ xx♥ AKxxx♦ xx♣ AQJx and partner will bid 4♥ when you invite. 4♥ has four sure top losers opposite ♥ 7xx and if hearts are 4-1 it could be expensive. Passing 2 does not end the auction. Partner knows the opponents are in an eight-card fit and will take action with any excuse. However, if you had ♠ O109♥ A54♦ A1032♣ 654, a ten-count of which eight points are good and two are guestionable, you would certainly invite. So how much more than ♠ Q109♥ 765♦ A1032♣ 654 do you need to invite?

Six experts agree with me and need at least Qxx of hearts to invite.

Adams: "Queen—If white, I would bid with the two. Partner bids Hearts over Spades with five-card suits often enough to go for 200 with less. Six working points seems a reasonable compromise to safety and competitiveness. My spade cards make it so that 3♥ might not have law protection, else bidding would be more automatic. 4333 does not automatically stop me from bidding, but is certainly not an asset."

White minus scores are bad also. Inviting with the six HCPs, of which two are questionable non-vulnerable, could be bad if partner thinks you have something and bids again.

Rodney: "Queen—Suppose partner has ★ xx♥ AKxxxx♦ xx♣ Axx or ★ xx♥ AKxxx ♦ xx♣ KQxx. We are likely to be one down in 3♥, even holding Qxx. Anything less and we're heading for the dreaded -200, and that's assuming nobody doubles."

This is matchpoints so the opponents can be a frisky doubling you and if you are doubled, you can kiss this board good bye.

Hopkins: "Queen—I would expect this to give us a 50% play for our contract which is particularly important if we are doubled."

Woolsey: "Queen—If I have less the opponents may hold the queen, which along with my queen of spades would argue for a lower trick total than normal. In addition partner may bid game if I raise, so I would like some values."

The Queen of spades could be worth a trick on defense but is unlikely to be a useful trick on offense. Same if the opponents hold the queen of hearts. If we have eight hearts and they have eight spades, there are usually 16 total tricks. If they can take eight tricks in spades, we should be able to take eight tricks in hearts. (8+8=16). Holding the enemy queen lowers the trick total so there might be only 15 total tricks.

Roman: "Queen—With such sterile distribution. I want two cover cards to raise."

4333 hands do not make good dummies in trump contracts.

Landen: "Queen—So much depends on partner's tendencies. With a rock I'd raise with the deuce, but the Queen seems mainstrain though I don't feel strongly about this problem."

One expert needs the King of hearts to bid 3∇ .

Schwartz: "King—Don't want to bid too much with my defensive spade holding. On offense my spade holding is likely to be equivalent to xxx unless partner has an honor.

Also can now guarantee that holding the King, a Heart lead won't cost a trick."

Three experts invite with trash.

Cappelletti: "Jack—I would consider the queen as "full values" for a raise. But I would definitely raise with Jxx as a "stretch" to try to get opponents higher than 2♠."

I'm not sure I would bid 3♥ holding Jxx, if partner was barred.

Pokorny: "Seven—At this vulnerability partner has a serious overcall so, most probably, 3♥ will be made or down one. I shouldn't be afraid to be doubled and it is very important to push them one level higher because 2♠ is probably a make. So, a quick raise with xxx is obligatory."

Parker: "Seven—I would raise an opening bid of 1♥ to 2♥ with any three-card support and six or so points, so here I will do the same thing. If I pass it will put too much pressure on partner to have to guess what to do in pass out seat."

If partner opens 1♥ and you're playing forcing or semi-forcing notrump, you should bid 1NT first and then support hearts. A direct raise to 2♥ shows a hand that would accept at least one game-try. The reason why you don't raise partner's 1♥ -opener or partner's 2♥ -overcall with trash is that you don't want partner to bid 4♥ unless he has an extremely good hand. The club or diamond queen might not be valuable but the spade queen is very likely to be worthless.

Another reason not to raise with 7xx is that partner might lead a heart from KJxxx with disastrous results.

Honors in the opponent's suit should be discounted. Invitational raises have to be stronger than competitive raises. After $1 \spadesuit - 2 \blacktriangledown - 2 \spadesuit$, play double as a limit raise and play 2NT as minors. This allows you to bid $3 \blacktriangledown$ with non-invitational hands.

This is a bidders game and East has told you that he doesn't think he has enough aces and kings to have a play for a vulnerable 4♥. RHO would probably invite vulnerable holding Axx♥xxx♦ KJxx♣ KQJ so he has a weaker hand This means that your partner has some of the missing aces and kings. Give partner as little as♠ xxx♥ xxx♦ xx♣ KJxxx or ♠ xxx♥ xxx♦ Kxxx♣ O.Jx and you want to be in five-of-a-minor. This would be a more difficult problem if East had jumped to 4♥ or you were in direct seat and RHO opened 3♥. Then LHO could have all of the missing strength. Any finesses you might need figure to be onsides. There is a perfect bid for this situation. 4NT in this situation shows both minors and guess what? You have both minors.

Four experts are wimps. I really don't understand their thinking. I think I would bid 4NT over any heart preempt and response.

Adams: "Pass—Maybe they got me, maybe not. I need a lot from partner to make game, and a little from partner to go for a big number. 3♥ is a good bid."

You don't need a lot from partner to make game. Kxxxx of clubs could be enough.

Cappelletti: "Pass—Rather than guess minors at the four-level, I will stay "fixed" and defend. Not that likely to be missing a game."

Pokorny: "Pass—Too much defensive values and too weak suits for bidding 4NT. Double with only two spades would be absolutely horrible."

Landen: "Pass—Brutal problem. Can't double with only two spades and 4NT is the only way to show the minors; that seems a bit much. I know they're robbing me but I'm passing and hoping to go plus."

Four experts agree with me and bid their hand.

Rodney: "4NT—For the minors! — Partner doesn't need much for us to make game. E.g., ♠ xxxx♥ xxx♠ xx♣ KQxx gives some play for 5♣ and partner can be better than this!"

Schwartz: "4NT—Worth overbidding slightly to get to the right stain. With Heart shortness, I can't pass as partner can have as much as 14 and unable to bid with a threecard heart holding."

Hopkins: "4NT—I always get it wrong if I double in these situations and partner bids my doubleton, so I am going to insist in playing in one of my suits and hope we have a fit in one of them."

Roman: "4NT—Pick a minor partner, and good luck to you."

Two experts put their eggs in a minor-suit basket. However, what if partner has the other minor?

Woolsey: "4.4—I don't like selling out with a singleton in their suit. I don't have a way to show both minors (4NT is Blackwood), and even if I did the five-level may be too high. So I'll shoot out a minor and hope to strike a fit. I choose clubs even though they are weaker so I'll have a four-level runout if doubled. East won't expect that I have a runout, so he may double on a trump stack and let me off the hook."

There are some auctions where 4NT is Blackwood but I don't think this is one of them. Over 2♠, 4♠ can show the minors, leaving 4NT as Blackwood. Over 3♥ you're more likely to have both minors then a solid hand needing only aces.

Parker: "4♦ —Not double because I want to have some partnership confidence that when I double in these auctions I have four spades or an easy second bid. 3NT is a silly. If I bid diamonds first I can bid clubs over 4♥, I will pass 4♠ if partner bids it."

Doubling would not be wise. If you double and partner bids spades, which is very likely, then what?

This is a bidders game. When in doubt take action.

There are a lot of ways to show this hand. You could jump to 4♥ and show a game-forcing heart raise. You could jump to 34 and show a game-forcing heart bid with spade shortness. You could jump to 4. to show a game-forcing heart bid with club shortness. Both 3♠ and 4♣ are splinters. You could jump to 4♦ to show a game-forcing heart bid with at least six diamonds. 4♦ usually shows stronger diamonds a hand such as ♠ Kx♥ AJxx♦ AKxxxx♣ x, Having no black suit losers could compensate for the missing king of diamonds. Since 1NT shows 5-5 in the black suits, you could also bid 2♣ to show a good 2♦ -bid or bid 2♠ to show a good heart-bid. The Unusual over Unusual convention. There is a problem of having only two black cards vulnerable with the opponents nonvulnerable.

Three experts show a game-forcing hand with six diamonds and four hearts. Partner is not going to know that you have no black suit losers.

Adams: "4♦ —Four-card heart support, long Diamonds. Seems clear descriptive choice. Too good for 4♥ preemptive."

Rodney: "4♦ —Shows a heart fit and long good diamonds. I know my diamonds are not good enough, but I have both black aces. I'm expecting to hear 4♠ on my left, and this bid will give partner a good chance of making the right decision, as opposed to me bidding a direct 4♥. Then partner is likely to think I'm balanced, because I didn't splinter."

Landen: "4♦ —Same bid I would have made if RHO passed. Shows a strong 4-6 in the reds. A typical hand would be ♠ x♥ AKxx♦ AQ10xxx♣ Kx, perhaps a pip stronger."

Two experts show spade shortness.

Pokorny: "3 — Partner should then know if slam has to be reached or, at least, what is the right thing to do if the opponents bid 4 ..."

Schwartz: "3♠ —Need to show four-card heart length and 3♠ leaves more room for cooperation from partner. 4♠ sends the wrong message as a stiff diamond in partner's hand is not a liability and 4♠ also takes up too much space."

Two experts show a balanced game force.

Parker: "4♥ —Surely they are going to compete in the black suites so I better show good support now. I will bid 5♦ over four-of-a-black-suit. I must be distributional since I did not double or cue bid. Partner can look at his diamonds and hearts and decide how high to go. 4♦ in this auction would show solid diamonds, which I do not have."

Cappelletti: "4♥ — Should have good play opposite A or K of hearts."

Two experts invite game

Hopkins: "3♥—Well, I do have three Aces and my hand could be worth a lot if partner has good trumps or we have a crossruff situation, so I am going to bid aggressively."

Woolsey: "3♥ —This looks about right on value. Partner will bid game if he has anything decent. I don't want to bid 4♥, since West will know what to do with a trump stack. If West bids 3♠ and that is passed around to me, I can try 4♠."

One expert makes a support double.

Roman: "Double—Tough problem. I'll start by showing a good hand, listen to what happens and try to make some good guesses later."

As you can see from the many responses, there is no way to describe this hand. Rather than describing your hand, why not let the opponents and partner describe their hands? Since you are holding only two black cards, 2Ψ showing four hearts can't possibly be the end of the auction.

Exclusion Roman Keycard Blackwood (ERKB) is a very useful convention but very dangerous. A jump higher than the ace-asking bid asks partner to either pass if he doesn't read it as ERKC or tell you how many keycards he has outside that suit. You use it when you are void in a suit such as the problem hand. So assuming partner reads 5♦ as ERKC he bids 5♥ holding ♠ xx♥ QJ10xxx♦ Axx♣ xx and bids 5♠ holding ♠ xx♥ AQJxxx♦ xxx♣ xx. I have played in ERKC and it was not a happy contract. One problem with 5♦ is that West can double 5♦ to show long diamonds which might allow the opponents to find a cheap save.

Adams: "5♦ —Exclusion keycard. One Ace and we play slam in hearts. Can't systemically find out if we have a spade loser, until I ask for Kings, so I will assume we have a spade loser if lacking Heart Ace and stop in five."

If partner bids 5♠ showing the ace of hearts, how can you possibly ask about second round spade control? All 5♠ will do will allow West to double 5♠ which could make it easier for the opponents to find a cheap save.

Pokorny: "5♦ —Exclusion RKCB. If partner responds 5♥, zero or three keycards, I'll pass. If partner responds 5♠, one or four keycards, 6♥ has to be played. Second alternative: 3♠ as fit-showing, followed by 5♦ (hoping to make a 5NT grand-slam try after the 5♠ response)."

Rodney: "5♦ —Exclusion Blackwood — At this vulnerability, partner has a good preempt and we have a shot at making seven. E.g., Partner holds ♠ x♥ AQxxxxx♦ xxx♣ xx makes 7♥ an excellent contract."

There is no way to find out if partner has the seventh heart.

Cappelletti: "4NT—If no aces will stop in five."

Woolsey: "4NT—The odds are that either we have a black-suit loser or that if the opponents have the ace of hearts they can take a couple of rounds of trumps and partner won't be able to ruff enough diamonds in my hand. So I bid RKC, planning on stopping at 5♥ if he doesn't have a keycard but bidding 6♥ if he does. Normally one shouldn't do this, but when partner is limited this sort of position is legitimate."

Just because partner doesn't have the ace of hearts doesn't mean he can't make six. If partner has as little as $\bigstar x \heartsuit QJ10xxx \diamondsuit xxx \clubsuit Qxx$, $6 \heartsuit$ has play.

Schwartz: "5♦ —Exclusion followed by a King ask assuming partner has the Heart ace. An immediate 6♥ won't shut the opponents as West holding a fistful of diamond will sack anyway so I might as well see if a grand is possible."

Two experts join me and bid what they think they can make.

Parker: "6♥ —How can we not have a slam? I fear missing seven but it will be too hard to reach. Give partner ♠ xx♥ Axxxxx★ xx♣ Qx and we have a grand. Sometimes you just bid what you think you can make without making it complicated. Partner's clubs should be the key. Second choice Exclusion Blackwood 5♦ then ask for the king of spades If he has the king of spades you bid seven but that may not be the key card."

If partner bids 5 showing the ace of hearts, there is no way to ask for the king of spades.

Hopkins: "6♥ —I see no way to find out if partner has Spade shortness and the Heart Ace. I could make this opposite as little as ♠ x♥ QJxxxx♠ xxxx♣ xx, but not make the grand if partner has ♠ xx♥ AQJ10xxx♠ xx♣ xx, so I will settle for the most likely contract."

Two experts try to be scientific.

Roman: "3♦ — I'm not bidding less than 6♥, and while I can't think of a way to bid a grand if partner has a singleton spade, I can at least get there if he has the ace of hearts and the king of spades (no, my partners never have that either). Second choice, 6♥."

Landen: "4♦ —This problem is unfair. What are your methods? What is your partner's style? With Chuck Burger I'd look for seven. With Kit Woolsey, I might settle for game. 6♥ is what my gut tells me to bid. I guess I would splinter with 4♦; maybe partner's got the perfect hand for seven. ♠ Kx♥ AQxxxx,♣ xxx♣ xx. With that monster, he should bid 4♠, then I'll give him 5NT, the grand slam force. I'm driving to 6♥ at least. "

What Landen is saying is that Chuck Berger can't have less than AQJxxx and Kit Woolsey could have ♠ xx♥ QJ10xxx♠ xx♣ xxx.

Sometimes you have to take charge and make the practicable bid.

West has made a takeout double and East has made a constructive response. Just how many HCPs do you expect partner to have? This is matchpoints where -200 is a very bad score and -100 is a poor score. Isn't it better to defend against 1NT, when you can probably hold them to seven tricks, without any help from partner, for -90, by taking four spades and two aces? -90 will be better than all the pairs who go -100 with your cards.

Two experts join me and go quietly for now. Pokorny: "Pass—The worst thing I can do is double, allowing them to reach some better spot (2♦ or 3♦, for example). 1NT should be a good contact for us because probably will end down one or exactly making. I don't like to bid 2♣ because the suit is too bad (and probably should be five-carder in this situation)."

Landen: "Pass—I have no safety bidding and will often score more defending than declaring."

Five experts double.

Adams: "Double—Shows my strength. If partner is weak, he can pull to long suit. Sometimes they do not even have a stopper. I expect to do fine in 2 if partner bids a red suit."

If partner bids a red suit, is it a four-card suit where you want to correct to 2 or is it five or six-card suit where you want to pass?

Rodney: "Double—Pass is very wimpy, especially at matchpoints, and 2♣ is inviting a bad score (e.g. partner passes holding ♠ x♥ Qxxxx♠ Jxxx♣ xxx). Partner knows I have a doubleton somewhere, and should not bid a four-card suit. Partner will pass with a balanced hand, or correct to 2♠. If partner passes, I'm hoping partner can contribute one trick."

Is partner supposed to bid 2♥ holding ♠ x♥ Qxxxx♠ Jxxx♣ xxx? If he passes the double you could be -280.

Schwartz: "Double—Defending 1NT, not vulnerable, probably will not score well anyway if it makes. Maybe partner can bid 24 or two-of-a red suit. If I had chosen to bid a blacksuit I'd prefer 24 to 24."

Hopkins: "Double—I'm not sure I can set this, but I want to suggest my strength to partner (in case he wants to bid a six-card suit). If partner has a few scattered values, then we should be successful on defense."

Roman: "Double—Utterly routine."

Three experts bid their other suit. Usually bidding a second suit shows five so partner, with $\bigstar xx xxx xxx xxx xxx$, will pass and you will play your xxxx opposite xxx vulnerable.

Parker: "2♣—I am willing to play 2♠ if partner does not have four clubs, but am not willing to sell out at the 1NT level. They will make 90 or 120 so I hope to go down only 100 and they make more than that."

The only way they will make more than 90 in notrump is if RHO has five spades which will not make playing 2 a bonus.

Woolsey: "2♣ —I don't have 1NT beat in my own hand, and we could easily be making 2♣ or 2♠. The opponents don't play 1NT if I can help it."

Cappelletti: "2. —Unless I had reason to think the 1NT was a psychic, game is very unlikely. Thus it must be better to bid 2. with this shape, than double (as I would with 5332) - which might lead to a six-card trump suit. If partner bids over 2. we will probably be in the right spot. Note that partner might be 1-4-4 and bid a red suit over my double."

While vulnerability is for children, at matchpoints one should be conservative when vulnerable.

WBL GUARANTEED PARTNER PROGRAM

You never need to miss the unit game because vou don't have a partner at the last minute! The WBL has a guaranteed partner (GP) program for players who occasionally need a partner for the unit game. Here's how it works: we provide a standby partner; if an odd number of people in need of a partner arrive, we match the players as best we can, and the GP plays with the one who is left. (If there is an even number of players looking, the GP goes home). You can always get a game.

Players in search of partners should try to arrive between 7:00 and 7:15 (or call ahead). The partnership desk closes at 7:25. You can call the WBL cell phone (301) 395-2760 at the last minute if are on your way and know you'll be at bit late.

To find a partner at least a day in advance, contact Barbara Doran (see below). or log on to the Online Partnership Bulletin Board at: www.Washington BridgeLeague.org.

You might want to volunteer for the GP program yourself. It's a great way to meet people. If you play on the night you're the GP, you play free. If you volunteer, you receive a free play for any future unit game whether or not you play that night.

Email Barbara Doran at UnitGamePartner@DistrictSix .org or barbd@starpower.net, or call her at (301) 608-0347.

Behind the scene volunteers are helping keep this game we love alive and thriving. This month, we give a big THANK YOU! to LEE BIGGS.

Bridge tournaments always seem to be so well organized. When you walk into the game room, the tables are all set up ready to go. Have you ever wonder how the same tables magically appeared at each tournament? The answer lies with 83 year old Lee Biggs of Rockville. Lee retired a number of years ago from a teaching career at Montgomery College and, before that, as a career submariner in the US Navy. Not content with the traditional leisurely retirement life style, Lee volunteered in the early 1990s to be the District's 'table caretaker and transporter'. He is now retiring from this, his third successful career.

With the support of Lora, of his dear wife of 61 years, Lee repaired and refinished the tables. He then personally transported them as far south as Myrtle Beach NC and as far north as Lancaster PA - and for ALL Regionals in between and for our local Sectionals. They are just card tables you say! Each table weighs about 14 pounds. When he fills the Ford pickup truck that he bought specifically to haul the bridge tables, there can be a load of as many as 230 tables. Add that to the bid box table attachments, the score posts, and other miscellaneous materials, it's a weight of over a ton and a half! Multiple this by two loading and two unloading evolutions for each tournament and that's over six tons of lifting. Occasionally Lee and Lora would have some help, but most of the time they did it by themselves. When not being used, the tables were safely stored in their carport. Their car and truck were relegated to stay in the driveway. The driveway also served as the 'card table repair and refinishing area', where Lee lovingly spent countless hours maintaining the tables.

Lee did this volunteer work for 16 years. Even though he would have dearly liked to continue, the wear on the body has now become just too much. He had to give it up. This has been literally a Herculean service to our Bridge community.

Lee also directed two games a week at the Rockville Senior Center – known widely for its abundance and variety of refreshments he provided! His games have raised over $65,000, all donated to the Senior Center. He has retired from this activity also. We can expect to see him more often now playing bridge - even though he will not be moving any tables!

Thank you Lee and Lora Biggs. Your dedication to this task and the service it provided to our bridge community is greatly appreciated. We wish you well.

Do you have any muscle or brains to spare?

The Washington Bridge League could use a little of either! In order to keep events exciting and entry fees low, the WBL relies on the goodness of our members to volunteer for small jobs at the Unit Game and Sectional Tournaments. Some jobs require brains while others require muscle. We'll be happy to employ either.

From setting up and breaking down tables, to publicity and events development, a little effort from you will make our bridge community even better. Busy schedule? No worries. Most volunteer assignments take only 15 minutes to 1 hour a month.

Here's how to help:

- 1. Reply by email, phone or in person if you are willing to help in any way.
- 2. Please indicate if you can offer any special skills (such as marketing or a strong back).
- Someone will contact you shortly with a choice of assignments you can pick from.

BONUS – You will be invited to the summer Volunteer Gathering and BBQ Party.

Thank you in advance for any assistance you can provide.

COMITTEE ACTION #54

by Rich Colker, rcolker@worldnet.att.nat

An appeal heard at the NABCs in Denver last fall illustrates the difference between receiving misinformation (MI) on a hand and sustaining damage as a result of that MI. The case arose in the second final session of the Keohane North American Swiss Teams. (Note: this deal was played behind a screen, which ran from the N-W corner of the table to the S-E corner. North and East were screenmates as were South and West.)

(1)Explained by S to W as a transfer to spades

East led the ♠ A, after which 3♠ doubled made three, +670 for N/S. E/W called the Director at the conclusion of the play of the next board. (West only became aware of a difference in the explanation of the 2♥ bid on the N-E side of the screen during the bidding of the next board.) The Director determined that N/S had no agreement that the 2♥ bid in this auction was a transfer, and therefore that West had been misinformed. The contract was changed to 2♥ by South down two, -200 for N/S.

N/S appealed this decision. At the hearing N/S said they had no partnership agreement that 2♥ was a transfer in this auction. South said he drew an inappropriate parallel between the present auction and other notrump auctions. E/W said they believed they were entitled to have the same explanation on both sides of the screen. East said if he had been told 2♥ was a transfer he would have let 2♥ play undoubled, holding only two spades.

Well, there you have it. Take a moment to decide how you would decide this case if you were on this Committee and then read on. I agree entirely with the Committee so I'll just report their decision.

"The Committee determined that South had invented an agreement when he bid 2\psi as a transfer. Hence, he had effectively psyched and North had given East the correct partnership agreement.

"West had MI, but his action of passing 2♥ and doubling 2♠ was not based on damage from the MI. He knew what South had.

"Equally, East was not damaged by MI since she had the correct partnership explanation. Additionally, although there was no obligation for East to work out what was going on, the fact that she had four hearts, West must have at least three, and dummy had promised two or more, meant South could not have five hearts.

"The only issue was whether West's final double or East's final pass was influenced by MI. No link was found. South's idiosyncratic method of bidding his hand was responsible for the result but that was not covered by the laws.

"Since there was no damage the table result of N/S +670 was restored."

So there you have it. The screen prevented East from receiving the MI about the 2♥ bid; East was told N/S's actual agreement—that 2♥ was natural—and that's all she was entitled to. (She was NOT entitled to know that South thought 2♥ was a transfer when that was not N/S's agreement.) So since she was not under the influence of MI, she had no right to "know" South had misbid or to take her double of 2♥

So if a player is given MI he is not automatically entitled to a score adjustment. The MI must in some way induce an action by him which results in a worse score than he might reasonably have obtained had he been given a correct explanation.

Oh, and of course the Director (or an Appeal Committee) must determine just what the "correct" explanation (i.e., the offending side's actual agreement, if there was one) really was.

DOES SOMEONE YOU KNOW WANT TO LEARN TO PLAY BRIDGE?

You can share the fun and challenge of duplicate bridge with your friends and family! Tell them about Steve Forsythe's Instant Bridge Player seminar, Sunday 22 October from 11 a.m. to 4 p.m., at the Margaret Schweinhaut Center in Silver Spring. (During the WBL sectional.) They can learn to play bridge, or review the basics of play and modern bidding, in just one day! It's two classes in one: we'll have one room for people who have never played, and one room for those who need a refresher or want to review

Steve's One Page Bidding System in detail.

The cost is just $20 with a reservation or $25 at the door. (Students $10 with reservation; $15 at the door.) A free booklet, lunch, drinks and snacks are included. For more information or to make a reservation, email majslf@aol.com or call Steve or Sandy Forsythe at 301/592-9177. Advance payment is not required.

REFLECTIONS ON THE HISTORY OF THE WBL AS OUR 75TH ANNIVERSARY CELEBRATION APPROACHES, PART II

by Bob Levey

This is the second in a series of articles from Bob Levey. For more than 36 years, he was a reporter and columnist for The Washington Post. Throughout that period, he edited The Post's bridge columns, and often contributed articles about bridge to national and international publications. In addition, Mr. Levey is a member of the WBL Board.

Andy Gabrilovitch knew that the Washington Bridge League was a different kettle of fish as soon as he showed up for his first WBL tournament in 1952.

As he walked into the famed Willard Hotel, "the first thing I saw was a body banging its head on the floor." Gabrilovitch recalled.

The body (and head) belonged to Charles Lovenberg, a WBL officer and leading player (the WBL Player of the Year trophy is named for him). Gabrilovitch later learned that Lovenberg had just gone down in a contract he might have made.

"It was a great introduction to WBL intensity," Gabrilovitch said.

Four years later, Gabrilovitch was often considering head-banging himself—because of a different kind of intensity. He and the rest of the WBL board had been asked to admit African-Americans as members, and to allow African-American members of other local bridge organizations to play in WBL tournaments.

Gabrilovitch was in favor, as was about half the board. But opponents—led by RLL "Skinny" Miles Jr., an oyster dealer from Norfolk who was the ACBL's president—beat back the proposal for five years. During that time, three WBL presidents and six WBL board members resigned, some because the WBL was considering integration, some because it wasn't considering it hard enough.

In the end, segregationists split off from the WBL and formed the Northern Virginia Bridge Association, which exists to this day. The ACBL did not integrate officially until 1964. The NVBA did not allow blacks to join, or to participate in its tournaments, until early 1967.

For at least 20 years, blacks in Washington had played organized bridge with whites in the Federal Bridge League, a club that operated in federal buildings. Blacks also comprised the entire membership of the American Bridge Association (ABA), which has existed since the 1940s and which often runs cooperative events with the WBL.

But in the late 1950s and early 1960s, when blacks tried to join the WBL, their applications were refused. When they tried to buy entries to play in WBL tournaments, they were politely asked to leave.

WBL events were never the objects of sit-ins or other demonstrations, which were going on all over the American South at the time. But tensions on both sides ran very high just the same.

Margaret Liebler Fisher was a leading segregationist and the bridge columnist for The Evening Star. In 1956, she wrote Miles to say: "The white frontier in Washington is being pushed back every day—not a pretty picture."

Miles told a WBL board member that same year that the WBL "is now run by a bunch of riffraff, perverts, leftwingers and communist fellow travelers. They have taken over in recent months, and the aristocratic, decent, fine Americans who had controlled the WBL since its beginning are now out in the cold."

In an editorial, The Washington Post retorted:

"How pathetically lacking in social status men must be if they have to depend on the color of their skin to win some sense of superiority... [T]hey are not entitled to much esteem from their fellow Americans."

Meanwhile, WBL members were writing anonymously to one another, trying to develop boomlets for or against integrated bridge. One anonymous letter of the time says:

"We want to play bridge — not be constantly embroiled in the turmoil of dirty politics and the emotionally provocative harangue of social reform."

Publicly, Skinny Miles cast the dispute in economic terms. He wrote to WBL board members in 1956 that if "Negroes are allowed to play in Washington, I think attendance at your Sectional Tournaments will be decimated."

Miles added that the WBL's chances of being awarded future regional tournaments and summer national tournaments "would be so weakened that it is my honest opinion that it is unlikely I could swing it."

What Miles did not mention was that blacks were members of ACBL units in New York, New Jersey, the Midwest and California, and the ACBL saw no harm in awarding those units their rightful share of regionals and nationals. When blacks attended those events in the north and west, attendance never suffered.

In 1956, the WBL decided to poll its membership. The reported tally was 219 for integration and 351 against.

Stung by the result, many pro-integration members wanted the ACBL to order the WBL to integrate. But ACBL bylaws said that local units could form their own membership policies.

Letters flew back and forth between Victor Daly, the African-American who first tried to join the WBL, and ACBL officials. Privately, the officials sympathized. Publicly, they said there was nothing they could do.

Part of the reason was administrative. The WBL was joined into the Mid-Atlantic Bridge Conference with Virginia and the Carolinas. Not only did those three states virulently oppose integration, but together, they wielded far more votes than the WBL.

Part of the reason was also political. In 1959, the famed African-American Congressman, Adam Clayton Powell Jr. (D-N.Y.), hinted that he would order a Congressional investigation of the WBL if it did not integrate. In a private letter to a WBL board member, New York Times bridge columnist Albert H. Morehead predicted that the ACBL would react with "fright"—but not with any move to integrate.

Why not two units in Washington-one integrated, one segregated? Because of ACBL policy.

Nowhere else were two units permitted to share members, income and authorized tournaments. So the ACBL would not consider such a move. Nor would the ACBL consider allowing blacks to apply directly to headquarters for membership. Every member had to join a local unit, said the ACBL.

A second membership referendum in 1961 finally broke the impasse. The referendum was called because Washington was scheduled to hold the 1961 Summer Nationals. Rumor had it that the tournament would be moved to another city if the WBL did not desegregate.

The vote this time was 624 to 279 in favor of desegregating. Fittingly, the first open pairs at the first integrated WBL sectional tournament was won by Victor Daly and his partner, Howard University professor Joseph Henry Jr. Lewis Tubbs, a former WBL president, was quoted in The Post as saving: "IThings have changed in recent years."

But not enough things to suit everyone.

Within two months, 356 members had split off and formed the NVBA. Despite its bylaws, the ACBL allowed the new unit to hold tournaments inside the District of Columbia, much to the loud dismay of the WBL leadership. The NVBA desegregated its membership and tournaments only when the ACBL ordered it to do so, in 1967.

Well-attended regionals and nationals became the WBL's calling cards during the 1960s and beyond. Attendance was consistently among the highest in the ACBL.

A harrowing incident arose in 1984, during the Summer Nationals. Edith Rosenkranz. a top player from Mexico and the wife of biomedical executive George Rosenkranz, was kidnapped in the garage of the Sheraton Washington Hotel and held for $1 million ransom, which her husband paid. The FBI arrested three ACBL members within two days. Mrs. Rosenkranz was not harmed. The money was recovered, and the three suspects were all sentenced to long prison terms.

As for bridge itself, the post-1961 WBL boasted some of the top players in the world. From 1974 forward. Steve Robinson won four world titles. Beth Palmer won three. WBL players Mike Cappelletti Sr., Kathie Cappelletti, Walt Walvick, Steve Parker, Peggy Lipsitz, Bobby Lipsitz, Eddie Manfield and Kit Woolsey dominated regional and national events.

Looking back on the racial friction of 1956-1961, Andy Gabrilovitch says it was a question of perseverance—and passion.

"We got nastier than they did," he recalled. "If they wanted to move away and form another unit, good luck. We knew we were right."

For Gabrilovitch, the furor ended very quietly—and very ironically.

He and his wife, Wanda, moved to Connecticut for many years when Gabrilovitch's career took them there. When Gabrilovitch moved back to the Washington area in 1982, he chose to live in Virginia.

The ACBL assigned him to the NVBA. He is a member to this day.

Honoring Doubleton Honors

If I ruled the world, all my suits would be KQJx or better! But I don't rule the world yet, so I sometimes have to make do with less impressive holdings. I'm sure you do, too. How do you handle a doubleton honor when the opponents lead the suit? What if you have a doubleton honor when you're on lead?

When Opponents Lead to Your Doubleton Honor

Often it's a good idea to play low from dummy on the opening lead, especially in notrump, where holding up on your winner can be critical to keep the defenders from running their long suit. With Ax in dummy, your ace is always going to take a trick, so you still will probably want to play low on the first trick unless you have more cards in the suit than the opponents do. But what if you have Kx? Should you play the king?

In notrump, the opening leader could well have the ace, so playing the king right away could win you a trick. Leaving him out there alone and naked guarantees that he'll never win. If you have no other high cards in the suit, playing the king on the first trick could be your only hope! Do the opponents have enough tricks in their suit to set you if they get back in the lead? If so, if your king wins the first trick, try to make your contract without giving up the lead. If either defender gets in, they're going to run their suit.

If you also have a "stopper" in your hand, you can play low from dummy on the opening lead and see what right-hand opponent plays. Unless she plays the ace anyway (which she shouldn't but she might if she has no other high cards in the suit), the ace will come out on the second round of the suit to smother your king. To cut off communication between the defenders, you'll probably want to play low from your hand on the first two rounds, then play your winner on the third trick. Qx opposite Jxx is always a stopper if you play second hand low.

In a trump contract, if you have Kx in dummy and you're missing the ace, your king is probably doomed. It's a pretty good guess that RHO has the ace, since most players won't lead away from an ace on the opening lead. (They know that underleading their ace is likely to give away a trick.) If you have no honors in the suit besides dummy's king, you might as well play it and hope that left-hand opponent had a senior moment when he made his opening lead! If you don't play it, RHO will win with a smaller card and continue with his ace to smother your king, or lead low to his partner if it turns out LHO underled the ace after all.

Leading from a Doubleton Honor

What if you're on lead against a suit contract and you're the one with the doubleton honor? Unless partner has bid the suit, or the opponents have bid every other suit, leading a doubleton is much more likely to set up tricks for declarer than it is to get you a ruff, even if you do hold the ace or king. (But if you have the AK doubleton, that's a great lead, just as leading from the top of any sequence is good.) If partner has bid the suit, it's okay to lead the honor from Ax or Kx. Partner might have the queen or the missing top honor, and even if he doesn't, at least it's still your suit and not theirs.

But if you have Qx, try not to lead the suit unless partner has really shown strength in the suit. Say you have this auction:

You	LHO	Pard	RHO
1.	P	1♥	1♠
P	2♠	All pass

Partner's 1♥ bid doesn't really promise much besides six points and four hearts. She could have no points in hearts! If you lead your queen of hearts from Qx, even if you find the king in dummy and the ace in partner's hand, she's going to be disappointed when she returns the suit and you don't have the jack. You may have given declarer an extra trick or even two that he wouldn't have gotten if you hadn't led the suit! On the other hand, if partner freely bids and rebids her suit, she should have six cards and probably something there. Now it's okay to lead your doubleton queen.

Leading from Jx is just like leading from Qx, only not quite as dangerous. Don't do it unless your partner has shown strength in the suit!

What if you're declarer, and you have Qx in one hand and Jxx in the other? Lead something else! The best way to take a trick in this suit is to have the opponents lead it for you.

Like the royalty they are, honor cards work best with a large entourage. If they only have one lackey — use them wisely!
