

Managing entries

When making the game plan we should check if there might be some communication problems between both hands.

If they exist, these are the 3 main techniques to minimize/solve the problem:

- “The white coup”– Deliberately lose a trick to diminish the number of cards opponents have in a suit we want to establish with spending our side entries.
- Sacrificing an honour to economize our side entries.
- Offering a trick to deviate a high card from opponent's that was preventing our access to one of the hands.
