

All credit goes to the many experienced bridge players that I have encountered starting with my initial bridge teacher, David Howorth, who without question has a true and devoted love of the game. Additionally, all the life masters (too many to mention by name!) at the Tupelo DBC and the Lightman Bridge Center (Memphis) who encourage me and are willing to play with a novice, are the ones who should be lauded. Bridge is a great game with so many wonderful people.
