

After traveling for years to get those elusive gold points, I never expected to get to a higher level. But, as I tell my kids, "if you live long enough, you get it all." And here I am, age 90, a Silver Life Master. A self-taught old school bridge player, I learned from reading "Goren on Bridge" repeatedly. I checked the book out of a library many times until learning the game.

After many years raising kids and working, finally I was able to play the game I spent so much time learning all those years ago. Returning home in 2000, I joined the Lake Charles Duplicate Bridge Club. We play 4 games a week.
