PRESIDENT'S MESSAGE

A New Writer in Town

by Mike Marcucci

Attention in the area. There's a new writer in town. After four years at the helm of the ship, Becky has moved along to that relaxed part of town called true vacation. She took that three-foot gavel of hers and passed it along to me on the last day of our Pasadena Regional. Writing a monthly column, you say? Guess I have to lube up the old keyboard and spread all the good news to our LA readers for the near future.

First order of business is to thank those members of the District 23 Board who have faithfully served their terms and who will be appearing at all future bridge tables with big grins on their happy faces. All their replacements have big shoes to fill since the originals were all wonderful and tireless workers for the betterment of bridge in LA the last four years (or more). Let's start with Becky Clough, our president.

Becky has quietly served as the catalyst for LA bridge activity during her tenure. Her work behind the scenes never ends. Her love of the game led to bridge excellence and leadership excellence. Behind that soft-spoken lady is a caring for her bridge family around LA that resulted in an ever-rising bridge spirit in all your District Board members that then carried over to your LA tournaments being as enjoyable a place to be as our own homes. We all feel welcome when Becky is

by Rand Pinsky, District Director

During this past month I received from Horn Lake a Fact Sheet that discusses some recent trends of the ACBL. While there is always room for improvement, I interpret these trends as a positive direction of the League.

Here are some facts from the sheet:

Overall, ACBL membership has increased by 12,249 members since 2006. Membership has increased in seven of the past nine years. The seven years of increased membership resulted in 12,531 net new members while the two years of decline resulted in 282 fewer members.

Over 106,000 new members have joined the ACBL over the past nine years. New member signups have remained strong and consistent each year. The yearly average is 1,283.

Over the past three years, the average age of a new ACBL member is 65.6 years old. This is lower than our overall average age and it is a result of focusing on the baby boomers.

There were 475 school bridge classes held in 2014 at the elementary, middle, and high school levels.

There are 5,427 TAP-accredited bridge teachers who are key drivers of membership and spreading the game across the continent. This number does not include other accredited bridge teaching programs like Audrey Grant's Better Bridge.

The ACBL is a leading example of a volunteer membership organization. Combined, the 25 District Directors volunteer over 8,000 hours annually. There are also 3,736 volunteer officials at the district and unit levels. This does not include the countless volunteers providing help at clubs and tournaments.

The Longest Day has raised more money and more publicity for local clubs than any other effort in the past ten years. Our organization has raised over $1,000,000 around.

Roger Clough has been our treasurer and has advised us on fiscal status. One might think that job could be done sitting down but you'd be wrong. He has worn a deep path to our bank and all the crossing guards in Culver City know his name. They will miss his bridge advice while waiting for those stop lights.

Ellen Anten was also tireless in her quest to improve all our tournaments. Who could forget that smile or say no to any request? She melted many hotel management hearts with her friendly and dynamic approach to creating a tournament atmosphere that said "Come on in and enjoy" to all our players. She has popularized the Pro-Am event on our Mondays and we hope to continue the expansion of such events until we fill the rooms. How she could arrange all her tournament tasks and still have time to amass her 20,000 master-points over the past 15 years is a testament to her partners, her enthusiasm, and her love for the game.

Betty Jackson has put so many partnerships together over her term that it should be a Jeopardy question. Her time at the front desk juggling entry cards with a magician's touch was entertaining to watch. How many friends can you make at one tournament? If anyone has the record, it will be Betty.

Mark Raggio has dreamed of our tournament finance issues so much that his wife is seriously thinking of starting a new career in banking. The worry has not been good for the hairline over his term, but we think he still enjoyed all those calculations that led to such good advice to our committees. He is putting the computer away for a while and I thought he mentioned a vacation in Tahiti the last time we spoke.

Joan Rubin has another one of those smiles that the good bridge speakers around LA know well as she approaches them. Along with being our secretary and record-keeper for the District, she has bent a few elbows getting interesting bridge subjects on our speaker agendas and encouraging all our speakers to entertain and enunciate! We need to get that secret list from her quickly before it is confiscated by District 22.

Oh, by the way, your new author in this space is Mike Marcucci. The picture was taken down at Coronado while attending some card game in that area. What does the t-shirt say, you ask? "I love the smell of rocket fuel in the morning!" Maybe I need to switch to Starbucks from now on. As we move along the tournament trail together over the next two years, expect to hear a few bridge stories from the past. Put that together with filling in the blanks of our Unit histories back to at least 1955 and we have the recipe for many more columns than one person could write. I'll try to fill in some of the blanks as we go. Meanwhile, hope everyone will take advantage of all the sectionals in the area over the next few months to get ready for our next Torrance Regional in October. I will be seeing you around our fair city (and may just carry that gavel with me).

District 23 District Director Election

The following are candidate statements from the two members running for District Director in the upcoming election. The election is currently scheduled for August 2015.

Kevin Lane

I'm Kevin Lane, candidate for district director.

Last month I urged support for my candidacy based on the common sense that serious problems over a long period of time require fresh, highly-qualified perspectives. This month I will briefly expand on what those problems are.

The ACBL wrote off $3.2 million dollars last year for avoidable mistakes. The reason this election is so important is because last year's multi-million dollar waste is NOT the biggest problem facing the ACBL right now – despite the fact that the software problems persist.

The most important problem, in my view, is that members of the national ACBL board have publicly expressed difficulty getting basic information from ACBL management. Furthermore ACBL management has constrained what the board of directors can and cannot tell the membership. To name just one example, at a public technology meeting in March, district directors were asked not to speak – and they didn't.

These fundamental problems severely undermine the critical oversight role of a board of directors.

The ACBL bylaws require district directors to exercise "independent judgment." And common sense says that district directors that take orders from management – rather than the other way around – can not be effective.

Please elect me not only for my energy and business experience, but also to help restore the traditional oversight role of the ACBL board of directors.

Contact me at kevin@acbldistrict23.org - or 562-492-6693 - to share your views or ask about the future of the ACBL or District 23.

Rand Pinsky

Last month I demonstrated with specific examples why I am the most experienced and qualified candidate for District Director. This month I will share with you my positive and pro-active vision for the ACBL and our District.

I support the following:

- The League's long term planning which includes membership growth and Youth Bridge.
- The Tournament Director University which trains and develops new tournament directors.
- The Board and the Management Technology Committees to improve the League's technology programs.
- The efforts of management to develop teaching programs and new programs aimed for Clubs.
- Above all, the efforts of our District to widen our player base by encouraging newer players to enjoy our game. To this effort, I attend every mentor/mentee game that is held in our District and provide any support the sponsoring organization requests. New players will keep our game alive.

I am encouraged by the response our Marketing has received for their development of the "Tricks of the Trade" blog for clubs and for the "Resource Center" which has information for all ACBL members. Also for getting a two page article on bridge in a recent edition of the AARP magazine.

Finally, and most important, I will continue to be the liaison between the staff at ACBL and our members, units, clubs, and teachers to help solve any problems that may arise or to expedite any requests.

Bridge should be fun. I support zero tolerance. Questions? Write me at Pinsky4Bridge@earthlink.net. You will receive an answer!

District 23 Board of Directors

The new District 23 Board of Directors was elected in July.

President: Mike Marcucci

Mike has been a regular on the bridge circuit for more than 10 years. He has attended a fair number of tournaments on the West Coast and hopes to attend more. His Unit work has consisted of trying to make the Unit 559 Unit games the best around. As Unit Game Manager, he usually seats folks in all the wrong places but makes up for it by giving everybody good boards when they play him. He is not a popular partner but continues to try hard.

Mike has also worked as the NAP Coordinator for District 23 for about 10 years. He is to blame for all those snacks at the Fall NAP games that folks try hard to avoid but who invariably give in to the aromas swirling around them and succumb at break time.

Mike also continues to litter the tournament walls with those historical lists that cover all the wonderful accomplishments of our District 23 players. While in office as your new president, Mike will continue to sleuth the back rooms and the lists will become more complete until we know everything about everybody! Keep watch and enjoy your cards.

Treasurer: Joe Viola

Joe has been playing bridge since high school and became serious about it in college. As he moved around, he stopped playing for a few years, but picked it up again when he moved to California and met one of his college partners. He has been playing regularly in the Los Angeles area for about 30 years.

Joe served on the Unit 559 board from 1995 to 1997. He has also been a member of the District Disciplinary Committee for the last two years.

Vice President: Penny Barbieri

Penny began playing Party Bridge over 37 years ago. She began playing Duplicate Bridge in 1993 and after her retirement from her position as Assistant Controller from Wells Fargo Bank, she decided to get more involved with her Pomona/Covina Unit. She has served as Unit #551 president, vice president and has been treasurer for the past seven years. Currently she is the current District 23 vice president and will be serving another term.

Penny served on the following District Board committees: Unit #551 District Representative from 2006 to present, Tournament Committee member, and Hospitality/Newcomers 2008 to present.

Penny is a ACBL Certified Club Director, ACBL Certified Bridge Teacher, ACBL National Service Award winner, ACBL National Goodwill Committee member, and ACBL National Charity Committee member.

In addition to bridge, Penny also enjoys shopping and spending time with her grandchildren.

Secretary: Bob Shore

Bob Shore has been involved in bridge administration for the better part of a decade. He has served on the Unit Board of the West Los Angeles Unit for about seven years where he has been vice president and is currently president. At the district level, Bob has served as a Unit Representative to the District Board for several years. He has been chair of the District Disciplinary Committee for four years and will continue serving in that capacity. Away from the table, Bob is a partner at the Beverly Hills law firm Raines Feldman LLP, where his practice focuses on high-end commercial litigation.

Bridge Stories

This recurring series in the Southern California Bridge News includes short bridge stories from District 23 players who earned a new rank last month.

I just started playing duplicate bridge a few months ago at Agile Bridge Club. Jeff Grotenhuis is a wonderful director.

Junior Master*

My husband and I moved to California from Chicago in 1968. We had played duplicate in Chicago, but when we came to Los Angeles, the sunshine beckoned and we gave up bridge for 30 years while we participated in outdoor sports. When my husband retired 17 years ago, we had time to do everything, thus back to bridge. Of course, bidding boxes, new systems, alerts were all new to us so it was a bit like starting over.

*Sandra Carroll
Gold Life Master*

I began playing duplicate in the mid-1960's. Duplicate bridge was very different then. The masterpoint awards were far lower and new players had to "take their lumps" playing in non-stratified fields against expert players. I am actually grateful for those essential learning experiences.

Lew, my husband and regular partner, and I met when we were "fixed up" by a mutual acquaintance to play in a mixed-pair event at an Akron, Ohio sectional. I was living and working as a high school social studies teacher in Youngstown and Lew was working at NASA Lewis Research in Cleveland. The "rest is history!" We moved to South California in 1972.

Over the years we had the opportunities to meet, play against, and kibitz many bridge legends including Goren and Sobel, Sheinwald, Garrozzo, etc., etc., etc. We didn't attend as many tournaments as we could have because we preferred to spend our vacations travelling, mostly abroad. As a result, achieving this level took longer than it should have, but I have no regrets and many wonderful memories.

We play few tournaments these days, so in addition to my sometimes-patient and excellent partner, Lew; I must give a "shout-out" to BBO for conducting ACBL tournaments with masterpoint awards that helped me reach this goal.

Bridge is an ever-evolving challenge that has provided great mental stimulation and meaningful social interactions (and its share of aggravation!), and I wouldn't have changed a moment of it!

*Rhoda Himmell
Emerald Life Master*

I began my journey at my parent's kitchen table with my brother Phil, all of us learning bridge via the new fangled Goren point-count system – and we had the memory jogger plastic tablecloth with all the basic bids in front of us.

I fell in love with the game and moved on to duplicate in the San Bernardino area and eventually flunked out of Occidental College due to being so mesmerized with bridge that I had little or no time for studying.

I played a lot of bridge in the 60's. I learned the Walsh system from Paul Soloway who lectured a bunch of upcoming (now well-known) bridge players in a house Dave Ashley and I rented near the Al Okuneff bridge club in West Los Angeles.

I spent most of the 70's working like a dog in illustration, then art and not playing much, if any, bridge.

In the 80's, I left it all and moved to Ajijic, Jalisco in Mexico for about five years, just playing and learning how to teach bridge to the expat community there. This forced me to delve deeper into the understand of bridge bidding - not just what bid means what, but why!

When I returned to the USA, I was blessed with expert partners who were much better than I was. First Rick Henderson and then came Gerry Bare who single handedly improved my game tremendously and was my partner in Atlanta when we won the Senior Swiss. After that Jeff Fang (sharpfang) put the finishing touches on what my game has become (whatever that is).

Bridge has become the most important thing in my life (besides my life partner of 27 years who nowadays is my spouse as well). I never planned/dreamed of achieving Grand Life Master status but with great partners and many years of playing bridge, it just sort-of happened.

*Mike Savage (perhaps better known as patomike)
Grand Life Master*

2015-2016 North American Pairs has started

Several clubs in LA have already conducted the first Qualifying games of the NAP season. Are you ready for Reno in March 2016? There will be many chances to qualify at the various clubs around LA. Did you know that you can qualify anywhere? With anyone? As many times as you choose to play? The entire game schedule for all of LA is on the District 23 website and but it should be easy to track your local club on your own.

We are going to try something different this year. District 23 usually has our finals in January. We are going to conduct that game earlier this year to give folks more time to plan their travel. Our aim is to have the semi's, traditionally in October and November, one month earlier this year. Then, instead of waiting till January for the finals, we are looking at settling things all up by Thanksgiving. Let's see how our players, directors, and clubs like this revised schedule for 2015, then we'll decide whether it's an advantage to be the first ones in ACBL to decide our finalists or whether it's still good to be last!

We'll be looking to see more Flight C players this year. A short educational slide set will be sent to all the clubs in LA for all players, especially our C players, to check out. You'll see that this is a great opportunity for everyone to compete for a national title against only your own peers. Please check your club bulletin boards for these slides and check out the snazzy logo for Reno 2016. See you in Pasadena.

The AARP Bulletin with a circulation over 29,700,000 readers featured an article in its March 2015 edition titled "Bridge to Brain Power." This magazine targeted ACBL's primary market. The article can be found on our website. It has resulted in many inquiries about lessons and membership to the ACBL.

These are just a few noteworthy facts. As always I welcome your comments. You can reach me at Pinsky-4Bridge@earthlink.net.

OK! We start with a Sing-a-long... to the tune of 'The Night They invented Champagne.' Everybody ready? Sing!

*My partner had opened 1♥,
Opponent made a jump
To Unusual NT*

*That's when I invented 'UU'
I didn't know what to do,
Until I thought of a cue*

*My partner had nary a clue
And you folks may doubt this is true
But I swear that to me it was new.*

That's the day I invented UU!

OK, OK! Enough singing! (Boy, some of you really can't carry a tune.)

So here's the story. Yes, it's true- I invented 'UU'... the 'unusual over unusual' convention? Unfortunately, when I devised it I did not know that it had been invented independently many years earlier by a number of high level players.

And, equally unfortunately, I invented it in the middle of an auction.

I was playing at a sectional tournament in New Jersey, about 20 years ago. My partner and I were B level players, though I think I was progressing somewhat faster than he was. I will readily admit, however, that over time he had developed and honed, a 'puzzled frown,' which he used frequently, to great effect.

Playing against an 'A' pair, my partner opened 1♥, and my RHO bid 2NT... showing the two lower unbid suits. I don't recall the exact cards I held, but I had 10-11 high card points, and heart support. If necessary, I will swear under oath that I had never before heard of the 'Unusual over Unusual' convention, but our system did include cue-bidding an opponent's suit to show a → limit raise.

What to do? That's when I thought, 'why not cue bid one of RHO's suits?' Which one? Well, the higher one, of course, since I had the equivalent of a limit raise. The lower one should show just a single level raise.

So, I bid 3♦.

Simultaneously, two things happened. The by now familiar 'puzzled frown' appeared on my partner's face, and LHO asked him what my bid signified. My partner, never one of the sharpest arrows in the quiver, paused.... then proceeded to give 3 or 4 possible explanations.... none of which were remotely related to what I had intended. He should have simply and truthfully stated that he had no idea. Admittedly, my invention in mid-auction did not make it easy for him.

As to that board, LHO doubled, my partner passed, RHO passed, I bid 3♥, all passed. We made 3, they complained to the director who dismissed their complaint.

Saturday, at the regional, Bev and I were in 1st place North/South, playing the final board of the day against the East/West 1st place pair. East opened 1♠. Sitting South, I held a ♠-- ♥Qx ♦Jxx ♣AKQxxxx. My bid, 3♠, a western cue, asked partner to bid 3NT if she had a spade stopper. West doubled, and Bev, obediently responded 3NT. Uncooperative East, however, bid 4♦, I passed and West now bid 4♠. Bev, holding 5 spades (Q987x) unhesitatingly doubled. Her bid was absolutely correct....and she won 3 tricks....2 in the trump suit and the ♥K. Unfortunately, I contributed zero tricks to the defense. My ♣A was trumped. They made 4♠ doubled, we got an absolute zero, matching my contribution to the defense, and though we remained in 1st place, N/S, we....oops, I mean I, fell to 2nd overall.

Obviously, I should have pulled the double and bid 5♣... which makes East (Dealer): ♠K10632 ♥Q2 ♦AKJ42 ♣7

South (Marty): ♠-- ♥J86 ♦Q3 ♣AKQ109854

West: ♠AJ4 ♥A10975 ♦98765 ♣--

North (Bev): ♠Q9875 ♥K43 ♦10 CCJ632

The following contracts make: 6♦ EW, 4♠ EW, 4♣ NS. North South are vulnerable.

Unit Game – Saturday, Aug 15, 11:00 a.m.

Individual – Saturday, Aug 1, 9:30 a.m., LaVerne Site

To all of you who participated in the Longest Day by playing, donating, or both – we thank you. The opening session was won by Clinton Lew – Pat Radamaker, followed by Tom Lill – Penny Barbieri and Margie Hall – Ann Raymond. In the afternoon session, Tom and Penny moved up to the top spot, with a 3-way tie for the second spot shared by Judy and Marty Husted, Rosalie Roberts – Patricia Radamaker, and Margie Hall – Ann Raymond.

The June Unit Game was won by Dan Botoaca – Amr Elghamry, then Tom and Penny, Vic and Kerry Sartor, Clint Lew – Pat Radamaker, and Fredy and Lulu Minter.

The July Individual was won by Bob Kakade, followed by Paul Chrisney, Barbara Killebrew, Richard Patterson, and Al Lax.

One promotion this month: Steve Mancini is now a Club Master.

The top game this month was a 72.02% effort by Walt Otto and Clint Lew, just edging out the 71.73% game turned in by Richard Patterson and Roger Ginsburg. Other winners: Claudia Cochran, Gayle Ginsburg, Karen McCarthy, Suzanne Wojcik, Fredy and Lulu Minter, Kim Horn, and Billie Steiner.

Our Unit had some success at the Bridge Week regional in Pasadena. Twenty unit members scored a total of 176.63 master points. The best single performance was turned in by Bill Papa and Vic Sartor, who won the Tuesday A/B pairs to score a whopping 31.96 points. Bill turned in the best overall performance, with 41.96, followed by Vic at 31.96, Sherman Gao with 26.93, Jack Chao with 14.29, and Genise Hasan with 10.19.

For our hand-of-the month, we have a little lesson in passed-hand bidding. You are playing Standard, deal, and pass holding: ♠J92 ♥T7 ♦JT42 ♣AKQ3

LHO passes, and partner opens 1♥. Your turn.

The "book" bid, holding a balanced 11 count, would be 2NT. But do you really want the lead to run up to this hand? For one thing, your hand contains no tenaces, so having the lead run to you won't help much. For another, most of your points are concentrated in one suit. That leaves the likelihood that at least one of the two remaining suits will have a serious weakness.

Instead, bid "where you live." 2♣. If partner has a fit for clubs, he can raise, or pass with a shabby third-seat opener. If he has six hearts, he can rebid the suit and you can pass, knowing you are in an eight-card fit. If he happens to have four diamonds, he can bid the suit, and you can pass or raise the suit as you think best. Finally, if partner has a balanced hand that's a legitimate → opener, he can rebid 2NT himself, and the contract will be played from the correct side.

At the table, partner – with this less than stellar opening bid: ♠43 ♥AJ982 ♦A ♣JT985 properly passed. Making four for a great matchpoint score (two red aces and eight trump tricks on a cross-ruff). 2NT goes down one. (You have seven top tricks in notrump, but that's it. Before you can set up a heart trick, the opponents will take one diamond, one heart, and four spades – at least. The only way to make 2NT is if the opponents are kind enough (read stupid enough) to lead hearts for you at trick one.

Quote for the Month: “Quarrels would not last long if the fault was only on one side.” (François de la Rochefoucauld,)

Until next month ...

GUV Memorial Award

It's pretty unusual to get three slams your way in a session. However in the Sunday Swiss during the Pasadena Bridge Week in one match partner and I had three slams on consecutive hands. On the first hand 6♠ was pretty much a cold laydown 6♠ bid at both tables. On the next hand my pard forgot what trumps were on a Blackwood inquiry and we only bid 6 where 7 was cold in notrump, spades or clubs. Amazingly we gained 2 IMPs as the opponents at the other table also had their bidding problems and bid to 6♣ while we were in 6NT.

By far the most interesting was the third hand. I held the second biggest hand of my life ♠AT ♥AKJx ♦AKQxx ♣AK, 28 High Card Points. After a 2♣ opener by me my pard forgot the specifics of Kokesh after responding 2♦ which showed at least a king. Perceptive as I am, I hoped it might be the ♠K. He held ♠KJ98x ♥xxxx ♦xx ♣Jxx. After a tortured auction we wound up in 6NT rather than 6♥. I swore to myself when I saw the dummy thinking 6♥ was the spot. But the Gods of Bridge decided to make up to me the rotten luck I had suffered all week long as a continuance of the rotten Luck from the Las Vegas Regional. Hearts were 4-1 with the QTxx offside while the ♠Qx was under Partners spade holding and diamonds were 4-2.

This led to me making 6NT where hearts would be down. Apparently the gods were also smiling on the opponents at the other table as they also reached 6NT for a push.

Ain't It Grand

I had a rare privilege last month, shared by at most a few hundred other people across the world of bridge. I was fortunate enough to be sitting across the table as Mike Savage, one of our Unit's favorite directors and players, acquired the last points he needed to achieve ACBL's highest rank, Grand Life Master. Mike, who has generously shared his thoughts on conventions and treatments for many years via his handouts at tournaments, was typically low key about the accomplishment. He wasn't even sure until he got home that he'd accumulated the last of the points he needed. Congratulations, Mike! I'm happy to have had a small part in your enormous accomplishment.

Clear Your Weekends

There will be new local excitement on Friday evenings. Beginning on August 7, Beverly Hills will hold a Friday evening game. Don't forget to support this new game so that it will survive, thrive, and perhaps even expand.

New Location

Please make your plans for the upcoming Labor Day Sectional. We've heard and listened to your feedback, and we have found a new location for the tournament. Actually, two of them. On Saturday, September 5, the tournament will begin at Barrington Bridge Club. Then, our Sunday and Monday games will move to Temple Akiba, located at 5249 Sepulveda Blvd., Culver City, CA 90230. Please give the new locations a try and let us know how you like the new digs.

If you just can't wait that long for a Unit event, I've got good news. We're holding a pair of Unit Championships on August 3. At 12:30 p.m., we're having a Unit-wide Championship at Beverly Hills and Barrington. Then, that evening, the 7:15 p.m. game at Beverly Hills will also be a Unit Championship. Show up and collect your points!

Returning the Favor

Coming up on October 4, it will once again be our turn to attempt to match the ABA's hospitality when we again host our third annual ABA-ACBL game at Barrington. As usual, it will be a Unit Championship. Lunch will be served at noon and the bridge is scheduled to start at 1:00 p.m. I have it on the best authority that the two-time defending champion in this event (and author of this column) will strive for a three-peat. Can you knock him off his throne? Come give it a shot. For less experienced players, we plan to include a section for 299ers, so if you don't feel ready to try your →

Entering the 21st Century

Thanks to our new Webmaster, Nancy Heck, the Unit is slowing dipping its toes into the 21st Century. Our Web site is up and running. It can be found at <http://www.bridgewebs.com/acblunit562/>. Please don't hesitate to suggest (or even contribute) content for our new Web site.

Pasadena's Not Just for Little Old Ladies

This year's Bridge Week returned to its Pasadena roots, and our Unit made its usual excellent showing. We have to lead off with Ellen and Bob Kent, who scored a hat trick, winning the Roses Knockout Teams, the Huntington Knockout Teams, and the Marshall Miles Swiss, the latter along with Bill Schreiber. Ken Okel and Jim Brunet turned a double play, pairing their win in the Wednesday Gold Rush Pairs with a win in the Friday Gold Rush Pairs.

But we had winners throughout the week. Marlene Felix started things off by winning the Monday evening 299er Pairs game. Pete Benjamin scored a win in the Arroyo Knockout Teams event and Ravnesh Amar prevailed in the Wednesday evening 299er Pairs game. Carole Hamburger and Myrna Frankel tied for first in the Thursday afternoon 299er Pairs game. The team with Rick Turner and Alyssa Kennedy won their bracket of the Huntington Knockout Teams event, and Jackson Tsao won his bracket of the Thursday Compact Knockout. Wayne Karson won the Friday A/B Pairs game, and David and Debra Stern won the Saturday Gold Rush Pairs.

Bragging Rights

I don't often get opportunities like this, so I'm glad I didn't let this one slip past me. As the dealer with everyone white, I held: ♠A97 ♥8 ♦AKQ109763 ♣2

This seemed like an easy 1♦ opener. Left hand opponent overcalled 2NT (showing the expected hearts and clubs, the two lower unbid suits), partner passed, and RHO jacked the auction up to 5♣. Well, the technical term for an eight-card suit is "trump," so I bid 5♦. Lefty doubled, ending the auction, and then she led the ♣K (requesting count):

After winning the first trick, lefty shifted to the ♥K, her partner showing count with the 9. I erred by leading a trump to my hand as RHO showed out, throwing a club. Then I got to counting. If I could trust LHO's bid she had 5 hearts and 5 clubs, and she was now known to hold two diamonds. This left her with only one spade, so a loser-on-loser play might leave her with no winning option. I cashed the ♠A, lefty following with the K, led the ♦10 to the J (RHO threw the ♥5), and then led the heart deuce from dummy, dumping a spade. Lefty, down to hearts and clubs, was cooked. If she led a high heart, I'd ruff and lead the ♦3 to the 5 to cash the ♥J. If she led a low heart, I'd score the ♥J immediately. She tried a club, but I was able to ruff that on dummy as I threw my last spade loser. Making 5.

Why was my play at trick 3 an error? I should have ruffed a heart back to my hand to be sure RHO couldn't win the throw-in trick. What could LHO have done? Her only real chance was to try a swindle by leading a low heart at trick 2. If she had, my only winning play would be to insert the J there and then. If your opponents would have found that play, your game is too tough for me.

Welcome Mat

We had our usual fistful of new members this month. Joining the ACBL are Stephen Feak, Camille Gardner, and Timothy Singer. Coming in from other Units are Suzanne Kanner and Sylvia Landon. As always, please give them a warm welcome when you see them at the table.

Around the Clubs

Picking up a 70% game at Barrington last month were Om Chokriwala and Stephen Yaffe. Club champions were Danny Kleinman and Frani Ridder.

A trio of 70% games at Beverly Hills to report. Bruce Altshuler and Dean Schenker hit the mark, and Rhoda and Lew Himmel touched the benchmark twice.

As always, the Marina City Club holds its games Tuesday evenings at 7:15 p.m. at 4333 Admiralty Way. Call Robin Thayer at (310) 713-8647 for information or for a partner.

Problem Solvers' Panel

Moderator: John Jones

Panelists: David Chechelashvili, Tim Lolli, Mr Mealymouth, Rick Roeder, and David Sacks

The August Problems are all taken from the 1978 book "Expert Practice" by Milton L. Stern. This interesting book is a collection of articles written by different experts. These problems were taken from the chapter titled "The Law of Total Tricks – The Key to Competitive Bidding," written by Marty Bergen. All hands were from actual play (some in world championships). Bergen's answers are in accordance with the results on the actual hands, but I disagree on most of the problems I selected. Let's see how the panel feels.

What call do you make?

Mealymouth: 4♠. If I recall correctly, this was a deal from the 2002 Grand Nationals finals. We were playing a team from Dallas, weren't we, John? West duly announced East's 4♥ as being his home state. I'd better accept the transfer, else Texas may secede from the Union again. [I vaguely remember someone commenting on that. We did play a Texas team early in the event. I guarantee the hand was not from the 2002 finals for two reasons. Number 1, the hand was reported on in 1978. Number 2, alas, we exited the event in the quarter finals, losing to a Minnesota squad.]

Sacks: 4♠. Clear, even if the raise only promised three. Yes, defending could be right, but worth the risk of double game swing.

Lolli: 4♠. It looks like 4♥ will make, so I bid 4♠. If things don't go well, I hope to hold it to down two doubled.

Roeder: 4♠. These days, most expert pairs have two ways to make a single raise in spades with 3 card support. With transfers starting at 1NT over a negative double [even with redouble], this would be the weaker raise to raise spades. However, since you did not specify, I am guessing this treatment did not apply - which makes the decision closer. My aces are in my short suits, which suggests defending. However, I am seduced by the sixth spade in a close call. Best case scenario is to get out for down one against a making 4♥.

Chechelashvili: Pass. This is not an automatic 4♠ transfer situation. Unless partner misdescribed his hand, we have an extremely defensively oriented hand, hoping that 4♥ goes down.

Bergen argues for pass because the likely total number of trumps is 17. He's thinking that North has three spades for his raise, and that both opponents are likely to have exactly four hearts. I agree that East's having exactly four hearts is quite likely. However, North may well have four spades, and just not have the right hand to jump to 3♠ on his first turn. My real point of contention is with assuming that West has only four hearts. With my 9 HCP, at least 6 or 7 HCP for North, an opening bid with significant extras for East, how much is left for West? West is unlikely to have the 10 HCP expected for a 2/1 in competition. Yet the more hearts he has, the more likely he is to make a light negative double. He is fairly likely to have more than four hearts. I think it is quite likely the total number of trumps is 18 (or greater). Our aces are in short suits, though, which could lead to the total number of tricks guess be off. I think this is a close decision. Bergen reports the save was wrong on the actual hand.

What call do you make?

This might be the goofiest auction I have ever presented in this column. Stern and Bergen claim the hands were taken from actual play. Does a midnight game after several kegs have been emptied count? North and East have both taken incredible, inconsistent actions. West might have drunk from the same keg, might have a speculative hand, or might have a sane double. We would see how inebriated West looked if we were at the table, but North and East are certainly taking wild views.

Lolli: 5♦. Since when did the drinking start before the end of the game? That's the only explanation for this auction. So, I play along and bid 5♦.

Roeder: Double. This question is incredibly difficult to answer because our esteemed moderator did not mention how many of the players were either drunk or on drugs. [How would I know? If I had been there, I probably would have helped myself to whatever the others were enjoying.] Let's count the lunacies: I have a 15 count opposite an opening hand and still got pounded in 3NT. Partner could not be psyching, at unfavorable, since he rebid over 2♥. Partner preemptively ran from 3NT without consulting me. [Running into the presumed bad heart break!] If he had felt squeamish, partner could have redoubled to show doubt—a 21st century treatment. Now RHO pretends he is Lazarus, coming to life again with a voluntary 4♠. If every hand were this entertaining, interest in bridge would be booming.

If we have not entered the Twilight Zone, suits are breaking badly. Perhaps my LHO made a speculative double, based on four or five hearts, the ♣A and the ♦K. Partner's diamonds should not be as strong as KQJxxx because that is a good holding for 3NT. Also, LHO could not even muster a 2♠ raise so his spade support does not rate to be momentous.

Could partner have ♠x ♥KQx ♦QJ10xxxx ♣Kx? This makes 5♦ reasonable. Perhaps the distribution is really freaky and they can make 4♠.

By the way, I lead the ♠K. That is, if my mentally challenged partner does not make another bid, which, I admit, could be right.

Mealy-mouth: 5♦. I can't suppress good three-card support for partner's suit forever. Besides, in the summer of 1930, a scout for the San Francisco Seals told the 15-year-old Joe DiMaggio, who was peeping through a knothole in the stadium's fence, "Never stand on the outside looking in unless it's a jail," so I'm going to join North, East and West in the loony bidding. I'd feel pretty lonesome peeping through a knothole outside.

Chechelashvili: Pass. This is a clear forcing pass situation. Bidding indicates that partner is 2263 (or better), and it is very likely we will make a slam with the right hand. The only way to get there is through Pass and then pulling partner's double to 5♦. Also, hoping that partner will raise to 6♦, with ♠xx ♥Kx ♦KQxxxxx ♣Ax, and pass with a worse hand.

Sacks thinks he can read partner's actions well enough to get his distribution.

Sacks: Double. Double and lead a club. Partner is 1=3=6=3. If his clubs and hearts are good enough to make 5♦, we will definitely get at least 500 and maybe 800.

Bergen thinks he has an exact read on partner's drunken auction. It's long, but for your reading enjoyment I'll quote him in full.

Bergen: 4NT. What started out as a nice tame auction has suddenly taken several unexpected turns. Partner has gone out of his way to emphasize the length and strength of his diamonds, since he obviously had the three hearts needed to raise that suit on the previous round. We can therefore place him with six-three or seven-three in the red suits. It now becomes apparent that this is a big double-fit hand, where we have nine or ten diamonds and they have about nine or ten spades despite West's failure to raise that suit earlier. The doubler must have been playing a waiting game with a heart stack. If we add one to the number of trumps because of the double fit, we get a grand total of about twenty. It now becomes clear that double is out of the question, since if we can defeat 4♠ that we can make eleven tricks in diamonds. However, there is a better bid available than 5♦; since partner can't have too much strength in hearts and spades, he must have a club honor to justify his opening bid. The diamonds are likely to run, based upon partner's 3♦ bid and your holding. Therefore, you should bid 4NT. Partner's actual hand was ♠86 ♥K53 ♦KQT9862 ♣A. In 4♠ the opposition would make either nine or ten tricks."

Where do I start with this analysis? This analysis is as drunken as the auction. The opening bidder, having support for partner's hearts, bids a non-forcing 3♦? He then unilaterally runs from 3NT (which he has no reason to think is going down) to bid 4♥, when he now knows hearts are stacked against us? And I'm supposed to believe that he must have the ♦K and the ♦Q and seven diamonds along with at least one quick trick and ran from 3NT without even redoubling to show doubt? And I'm supposed to play him for this and bid 4NT?!?!? How can he possibly have diamonds this good and run from 3NT?!?!? How can he run from 3NT which might make and run to a suit which should be stacked?!?!? And when will he be sober again?!?!? I'd be saying to him "Don't worry partner! I heard you run from 3NT without even consulting me, but I know you are wrong and I have you covered." And when did East discover that he had some of his spades on the floor? I am certainly sorry I missed this party! Incidentally, on the actual layout, 6♦ makes if West has the ♣K for part of his double because he will get squeezed in hearts and clubs.

Climbing the Ladder

Our newest members to take their first steps, as Junior Masters, on a road that culminates in the status of Grand Life Master are Joel Levine and Preston Wake. Thea Drayer is now a Club Master. Furrokh Dastur, Jane Davis, and Ann Turner have reached Sectional Master status, while Sue Hunter, Allan Sher, and Stephanie Young are now Regional Masters.

Ellen Kent has become an Emerald Life Master. Congratulations to all on your accomplishments.

 ♠K732 ♥QJ ♦QT9 ♣A872
 What call do you make?

Mealymouth: 4♥. I have four working cards (the ♠A, ♠K, ♥Q and ♥J) for play in hearts, and am itching to double 4♣ when West accepts my transfer bid. [Mealy's weak two bids are like Zia's, great offensive hands. While the rest of the panel is wondering if they should risk 3♥, Mealy is bidding 4♥ thinking it has a play. The difference is not primarily in evaluation, nor tactics, it's the strength of the two bid.]

Lolli: 3♥. I think it would be hard for EW to double this [a very good point], and I pretty much want a heart lead if we defend, so I go for it.

Sacks: 3♥. I must compete. It's not clear who makes what but we have enough to compete.

Roeder: 3♥. If I held the ♠9, instead of the ♠8, defending is more attractive. This is a violation of the Law of Total Tricks – but my heart honors and likely lack of duplication of club values make me an offender. Give Partner a hand such ♠xx ♥A10xxxxs ♦KJxx ♣x and both 3♣ and 3♥ rate to make. However, in more situations, one contract or the other will make.

Chechelashvili: 3♥. Unless my partner is known for weak NV preempts [like yours or mine?].

Bergen: Pass. Partner has six hearts, and is more likely to have two clubs than any other number (since he has six hearts, he has a total of seven cards in the other three suits, an average of 2 1/3 for each). Therefore we probably have [exactly] 15 [total] trumps.

Odds change significantly after a three level overcall. East probably has at least six clubs for the three level overcall. My hand has four clubs. That's at least ten clubs we can account for. The preemptor is less likely to have two clubs than West is. One is partner's most likely number of clubs. Bergen's analysis essentially assumes West has at most one club.

 What call do you make?

Roeder: 5♦. If the opponents own nine spades, my trump holding is not scary. I can construct hands where a double game swing is in the offing.

Sacks: 5♦ in tempo. Put pressure on. Let them guess.

Lolli: 5♦. I have a useful hand for offense and hopefully I can make. If they bid 5♥ or 5♠, I hope to beat it if partner leads his stiff major.

Chechelashvili: 5♦. The chances that we escape for down two if they make 4♠ are high.

Mealymouth: 5♦. I have four working cards (the ♥A, the ♦K, the ♣J and the fourth diamond). Again, I can't resist raising partner's suits. If all goes well, East will double and lead a singleton king of clubs. Then I shall face my cards quickly and achieve the goal most of my partners set for me, being dummy on every deal (including the next hand). [Well done! You probably will get a 70% game if you never declare!]

Bergen: Pass. We can calculate the total trumps as 17 or 18.

Why shouldn't they have nine trumps if they think they can make game? My spades won't be much of a problem. If it isn't clear to bid on this hand, partner must make some really awful Unusual Two No Trump bids. I think this is the easiest hand of the set.

 What call do you make?

Roeder: 4♠. Partner can have some pretty trashy hands which still produce game.

Sacks: 4♠. Not as clear but same answer as #1.

Chechelashvili: 4♠. With regular partners this type of hand is shown with double. [Double at the four level must be a variety of good hands, not just those with exactly three spades.] However without discussion, I would just bid 4♠

Mealymouth: 4♠. Like #1, I still accept the transfer, in tempo.

Lolli: 4♠. It feels like they have lotsa hearts, and we have lotsa spades, so I bid.

Bergen: Pass. Again 4♠ was bid at the table, and again it was wrong. Since your side guaranteed to hold eight spades in this competitive auction, you shouldn't bid 4♠. Partner probably has two or three hearts, so there are only 17 or 18 tricks in the hand. At best you would be taking a 500 point loss. At worst (which actually happened on this hand) you go down when the opponents were about to go set. Remember partner is still there [he doesn't know we have spade support though]. Partner's actual hand was ♠JT875 ♥K74 ♦Q8 ♣Q83. [He won't always have a quackish hand with three hearts and only five spades.]

The opponents have announced ten hearts. We have at least eight spades (partner could have more than five spades). The total number of tricks should be at least 18. Unless those 18 tricks are divided 9 versus 9, someone makes game. 4♠ is clear! Maybe they will bid at the five level?
