

Helene and Michael Miron

Helene and Michael are celebrating 46 years of marriage this December 15 -- but they did not spend all those years playing bridge together.

Helene is a retired educator who taught in Woodmere, Long Island not far from Long Beach, Long Island where she grew up. Michael, a New Jersey boy, spent most of his work years in the insurance and reinsurance fields after earlier experiences in the public accounting field and the practice of law. His professional activities included founding and serving as Editor of International Insurance Financial Service, a publication that provided data on worldwide insurance companies.

The Miron family lived in Manhattan, Westport, CT and Teaneck, NJ before retiring to Tucson, AZ a little over 20 years ago. Their interests include bridge (both are Ruby Life Masters), golf (no longer), exercise (including daily walks around the perimeter of Encantada mall), reading (they both belong to book clubs), and travel (which they hope will resume before too long).

Their families have remained on the East Coast and so recently they have become avid Zoomers so they can stay in touch. Much like all of us, they look forward to playing bridge live at the Adobe Club - in person, face-to-face and once again experience everything connected to the fun that they used to have.
