

MEET SUNAND BAL (aka Sunny)

I love building houses (I'm an engineer) and trading stocks, bonds and options (I have an MBA). I retired from Morgan Stanley three years ago but have pathologically been unable to give up my building activities and I still enjoy trading, albeit at a more modest pace.

Most of you know me at the bridge table or as the onetime owner of the Las Candelas Bridge Club that we successfully merged into the Adobe Bridge Club and provided the bridge financing (pun intended) to make the whole project as successful and joyful as it has turned out to be -- pre-Covid.

I can hardly wait to play with all of you once again when we are all suitably vaccinated and the Club re-opens. It won't be long!

Let me warn you though that ,at the suggestion of my friend Ram, I have switched from the confines of Precision and will now torment you with my version of 2 over 1 -- much to the chagrin of my frequent partners Ray Grady (who has put up with my errant ways for almost 15 years) and Eric Swanson who continues to play with me in the mistaken belief that I will improve some day!

Bombs away!

Sunny
