

Sinead Collins

We were very sorry to hear of the passing of Sinead. Though she has not been playing in recent times, she is to be counted among those who were enthusiastic members from the early days. She was a very able Social Secretary at a time when members loved to party and the social side of our club was vibrant and fun filled.

Every club to which Sinead belonged was the richer for having her, from golf clubs, where she was Captain, to Malahide Historical Society where she could be relied upon to deliver terrific presentations, always knowledgeable and well researched. She gave generously of her time to the community and to her local church. Endlessly curious, she travelled extensively, often solo.

Sinead worked in Dublin and Fingal Council Council in the Planning Department. Tributes from former colleagues cite her sterling work on the Development Plans, where she showed great knowledge and ability.

Sinead was a very popular colleague , a lovely lady and to many a great neighbour.

Those of us in MRBC who knew her will remember her with great fondness. We extend our sympathy to her loved ones.
