

At last, the new technology toys have arrived. Thursday saw the roll out of our new tablets. Yay! Now it is possible to SEE what bids have been made. No more peering helplessly at miniscule symbols. Is that a spade bid? The new tablets are just the right size to fit on the tables and, I think all agreed, are very straightforward to use.

A brief moment of joint consultation needed here ...

"Director!" OK there were some problems, but usually, self inflicted!

Most, just took it in their stride – SIMPLES!

Thanks to Richard, for time spent sourcing, ordering, and sorting out the new tablets as well as having to master the new uploading system, and writing a new set of instructions as a general aid!
