

Christmas Social 15th December

Lots of you got in the festive mood, and wore Christmassy tops. And who's that wearing antlers just arriving?

Many others joined in, some with subtle touches from Eileen's golden satiny blouse with muted glittery golden top, to these little earrings.

People got into the spirit of things, - half way through the session a mournful voice announced "I'm a lost elf." Ah! Bless! (You had to be there!)

I think the lost elf was Sarah Boydell. I hope you have recovered from the trauma!

Peter came second at the bridge.

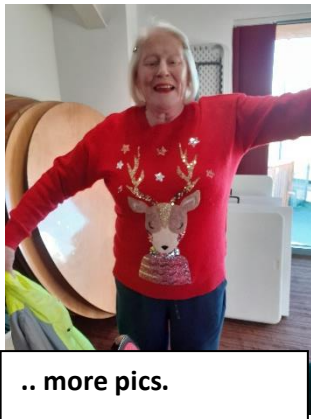

The winner of the best outfit was ... well, who was it? Do you know who it is yet?

Bob West managed to snaffle two prizes. One for winning the Chicago bridge. Miraculously, he never moved throughout the session. The other was a spot prize. Well done!

... and the Booby prize goes to .. well it was shared actually, between Geoff Lewis and Richard Bradley.

The mulled wine was a popular choice. All those mugs on the tables, tea? Coffee? Nope!

.. more pics.

Special thanks to Brigitte who gifted us some spicy assorted offerings.

On to the serious stuff, although how you can say that with anyone wearing a pair of antlers on their head ... still Jon did get himself a prize (and Jill) for "services to the cause" and keeping the headgear on throughout! Richard got one too for keeping his Santa cap on – hidden away in the background if you look closely .

Finally, a big thanks to Katie for organising everything and to all those who attended and made it such a fun session.
