Bridge at Sea

NOVEMBER NEWS

Hello Jim,

Congratulations to our October champion

Our first monthly champion is Richard Croot from Leominster, who averaged 30 points over two Declarer Challenges in October. Well played, Richard! A Bridge at Sea champion's diploma is on its way to you.

I'd love to be offering a cruise as the prize one day. For now it's the glory, and the diploma.

November is wide open

The November ladder has started and nobody has finished two challenges yet, so the top spot is there for the taking. To be champion, finish at least two challenges during the month with the best average score.

New: free lessons for learners and improvers

Some of the Challenge hands are hard, so we've opened a free Learn section to help. Each short lesson teaches one declarer technique on a simple hand:

- The hold-up
- Setting up a long suit

- Ruffing losers in dummy
- Discarding a loser

Plan the hand with a few questions, watch it played one trick at a time, then play it yourself, with a hint if you need one and an explanation if you go wrong. Each lesson ends with a real Challenge hand on the same theme. More lessons are on the way, including defence.

You can also reach the lessons from the app: open the menu and tap Free lessons.

Please pass it on

If you know someone who is learning, or a club that runs classes, please send them the Learn link. It's completely free, and it's the best way to help Bridge at Sea grow.

Thank you for your support, and good luck on the November ladder.

With best wishes,
Mike Smith
