

These days of Covid have made us so scared
We've all tried so hard to be well prepared
When we resorted to shopping online
all that was left was expensive wine.

With the lockdown in its final throes
the days of 'bridge famine' might draw to a close.
We'll all have concerns on restarting bridge
but we're also worried about that empty fridge!

We'll sit at baize tables now 2 metre distance
Oops - to lay the cards we'll need some assistance.
Will we remember the rules of the game
as starting from scratch would be such a shame!

So when we are dealt with our very first hand
we must all make sure that we understand whatever thirteen life has dealt us to play a couple of good Honours should save the day.
